How to care for Wood furniture (unpainted)

Never use sharp items on the surface of the product. For example knives and utensils may damage the product. It is also advisable to place a mat under paper when writing.

Furniture with a hard lacquer, wax polish or painted surface should be dusted with a dry cloth.

Waxed furniture will need to be given a coat of beeswax a couple of times a year to help maintain its luster.

Spray polishes are best avoided as they contain silicones which may spoil the furniture's surface by building up over time.

Make sure all surfaces are protected from heat and liquids by mats and coasters. Wipe up spills immediately and ensure that a mat or pad is placed under paper if you are writing.

Extendable dining tables should be left extended for the first few months to avoid an uneven appearance. Likewise, lamps and ornaments should also be moved regularly.

Our furniture will endure most temperatures in the home but it is best to avoid placing furniture next to heat sources such as radiators or fires. Be particularly careful with solid wood as the lack of humidity caused by central heating can cause damage such as warping.

How to care for Painted Wood furniture

Never use sharp items on the surface of the product. For example knives and utensils may damage the product. It is also advisable to place a mat under paper when writing.

Hand painted brush stroke finish's will hold up to everyday wear and tear quite nicely. However, it is important to remember that your piece is still a wood piece of furniture and should be cared for as such.

Painted furniture still requires regular dusting with a damp cloth. When very soiled wash with a solution of mild, non-abrasive detergent and warm water. Wring a cloth nearly dry and work on a small section at a time, then rinse with clear water drying after..

Never leave water to settle on the surface as this will cause damage. Any liquid spilled onto the item should be cleaned up immediately using an absorbent cloth.

AVOID chemical cleaners or liquid furniture polish including direct contact with greasy substances.

As with all natural wood products, there will be some movement within the parts as the furniture acclimatises to its surroundings, you may see slight chipping and cracks where panels meet, this is a completely natural occurrence with ALL painted products using natural solid timbers.

Painted surfaces can be carefully touched up with matching paint.

There will be various brush lines, slubs, and little inconsistencies in the painted finish, this is all part of the relaxed handfinished look and feel of hand painted collections.

It is quite normal for cast and wrought iron products to develop surface rust and this aged appearance of the metal is to be expected. The rust will not affect the integrity of the product but adds a rustic patina finish to the items. Most of our iron products are supplied to naturally age in this way.

Metal products will age quicker when in close vicinity to the coast due to the increase of salt in the atmosphere.

Steel and aluminum products will dull and corrode over time, again depending on placement and exposure to the elements.

Some planters and furniture will have distressing, antiquing or faux rust already applied and this is a unique feature to depict a pre aged appearance.

Be mindful when placing some products designed to rust as part of their feature as they could leave tarnishing when hung on a wall or placed on the ground.
